

Task 3 Analysis

- The results differ in a way where the second week's full fare card usage in the Fulton street line has hugely declined as compared to the first week's usage.
- The reason why the data looks like this is New York was hit by Hurricane Sandy on the 22nd of October. Thus the use of subways dropped to a great extent on account of the disastrous calamity.